NOAH'S ARK ARMENIAN BULLION COIN

Noah's Ark is an important symbol of Armenian history and deeply rooted in European culture. According to biblical tradition, the Ark was stranded after the Flood on Mount Ararat, the national symbol of Armenia. The Noah's Ark bullion coin is issued by the Central Bank of the Republic of Armenia. As legal tender in Armenia, its production is subject to the strict requirements of the Central Bank: the purity of the silver and gold, the weight and the quality of the minting are tested and guaranteed by the state.

The bullion coin is made of the purest fine silver or fine gold and comes in four sizes in gold and seven sizes in silver. This enables every investor to design freely and flexibly the scope of his investment. The investment in precious metal is an investment in lasting and secure values.

HISTORICAL AND MODERN NUMISMATICS

Numismatic coins are characterised by their ideal value and their often low limitation. Historical numismatics tell us a lot about life of previous epochs. Due to the endured time and old minting art, each of these coins is a rarity. Whether with a patina or a small reddish flaw – each coin is unique. They have been true masters of value preservation for centuries. In modern numismatics, the coins are often available as series, for special collecting and thematic areas.

EACH PIECE IS UNIQUE

The pieces of historical and modern numismatics shown here are, for the most part, unique or are issued in a limited number. Therefore they have a limited availability. Our complete, current offer can be found online at www.geiger-edelmetalle.de

CASTLE GÜLDENGOSSA

The castle of Güldengossa near Leipzig is the headquarters of Geiger Edelmetalle AG.

The village of Güldengossa was first mentioned in 1285. In 1720, Johann Ernst Kregel von Sternbach built this imposing palace in the late Baroque style. In the following years, there is evidence of a friendship with the Grand Master of Baroque music, Johann Sebastian Bach. Together with the castle's owner of the time, he also owned shares (so-called Kuxe) of a silver mine. Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, the world's most important German poet, has been recorded buying platinum at the castle of Güldengossa. Throughout the Battle of Nations in 1813, the castle served as a military hospital. The so-called "French soldier's grave" in the castle park still bears witness to this today.

After an elaborate and historically detailed renovation, the castle and the corresponding park currently shine in new splendor.
